

Pain Medicine Physician in Private Practice – South Western Sydney

An exciting opportunity has become available for a Pain Medicine specialist to join and lead our established private multidisciplinary Pain Clinic. The practice is part of an established group of specialist physicians and allied health, with an established referral base of local specialists and GPs.

We are located in the fastest population growth area in Sydney. There is ample opportunity to perform interventional pain procedures at local private hospitals and in our consultation rooms, as well as performing inpatient pain consultation services to the hospitals. One of the largest new private hospitals in NSW will be built in the local region in the next few years and this is the opportunity to have your practice established early and be part of the future growth plans of the region.

Our practice offers full administrative support and secure remote access. We can also assist to mentor any new Fellows entering private practice. Work hours are flexible and we are happy to accommodate your preferred working days and hours.

Requirements

FFPMANZCA or equivalent

Ability to perform pain interventional procedures is preferred, but not essential.

Contact

If you are interested, please contact Tina Brown with your CV via email at tinasbooks@live.com.au