

Sydney Cognitive

Private practice pain medicine specialist

A Pain Specialist is sought to commence private clinic at Sydney Cognitive, a new and vibrant neurology practice in the heart of North Sydney, with easy public transport and disabled facilities. It has a multispeciality and allied health focus in the up to date management of dementia, concussion and migraine in addition to all other cognitive and neuropsychiatric disorders. We see all neurological conditions. We aim to provide excellence in care, involvement in research, and community advocacy.

Neuropathic pain is common in our patient cohort and we are currently seeking a Pain Specialist to become part of this dedicated team.

Existing services in neuropsychology and neuro-occupational therapy are available, with scope for geriatrics, sleep and neurosurgical input. There is opportunity for a monthly case meeting for improved patient management and a collegiate environment.

Though we are an integrated service, we encourage maintenance of each specialist's direction of their own practice interests with flexibility for session timetables and billings. Opportunity exists through use of our treatment room for basic procedures and testing.

Patients

Sydney Cognitive is ideally placed to service a younger, professional population with neurological conditions such as migraine, as well as a central clinic for the retired and ageing population on the North Shore. In addition, it provides a subspecialist clinic for referrals across Sydney, Canberra and regional centres.

Facilities

The clinic is a newly built and spacious facility with 7 clinic rooms and a strong consideration towards the needs of our patients. The clinic design allows a clean and modern environment, conducive to a high throughput, and includes a meeting room, staff toilet facilities, and kitchenette. The meeting room also allows space for family meetings. The location in North Sydney gives access to trendy cafes and lunch spots. A hotel is nearby for country patients should they require overnight accommodation.

Fees

An associate model of fees is proposed at a highly competitive percentage negotiable, all inclusive of on-site secretarial support Monday-Friday 8am-5pm, all stationary, postage, IT, internet and telephone use. Working days and hours are flexible.

Contact

The clinic is available to be inspected on request and all applications or enquiries may be directed to Ana, or Clarissa, on (02) 9900 5500 or reception@sydcog.com.au
